

Greenfylde Dog dreams

Greenfylde Dog knew it wasn't long until he started school and he felt very excited but also a bit nervous (he still had some butterflies in his tummy). All the things he would learn would help him be what he would like to be in the future and Greenfylde Dog dreamt of what he could be.

Maybe he could be a Doctor, a Vet or a Nurse as he didn't want anyone to feel poorly and ill and he would like to be the one to make them better.

Or he could see what his teacher
did at school, would Greenfyld Dog be good at helping other people learn?

People always needed things fixed and he had been fascinated when a plumber came to do repairs at his house.

Could he move from building with Lego to something bigger and build houses and maybe even skyscrapers?

He loved talking to people in the shops where he went shopping, could Greenfylde Dog help people find what they need and help them when they shopped? He liked the idea of making window displays and organising everything so it looked amazing.

Greenfylde Dog's sister liked to tell him what to do and set the rules for their games, maybe Greenfylde Dog would grow up to help write laws himself or help people follow the laws by being a lawyer or a politician.

He could dream really big and be an astronaut zooming into space!

He knew a lot of people had been ill recently and he had heard about how special carers were. He liked to look after others so maybe this could be the career for him.

Taking his toys apart to find out how they work was a favourite activity for Greenfylde Dog, did he have a future as an engineer or scientist working out how and why things happen and inventing new machines and ideas for the world?

Snuggling with a book was so relaxing and calm, could Greenfylde Dog be writing the books children read in the future and become a published author?

What would you like to be in the future?

Talk to your family about all the jobs they do and think about what you could dream to be.

Learning is fun but we learn so we can choose our futures so keep dreaming big with Greenfylde Dog!
